PREP SCHOOL LEAGUE

Basket-ball Teams May Arrange a Series.

PROJECT HEARTILY INDORSED

Proposed Organization Will Include Army and Navy, Washington School, Friends Select, Georgetown Prep, Y. M. C. A., and Emerson Institute. To Hold Meeting at Y. M. C. A.

There is a strong probability that a basket-ball league, composed of teams from local preparatory schools, as suggested by The Washington Herald some time ago, will be organized within the next few days. According to present plans, the league

Prof. Swavely, of the Army and Navy Preparatory School, received the subject favorably, and stated that the school would be only too glad to enter a team in the league along the lines proposed. Georgetown in Favor.

Mr. Angleman, of the Georgetown Preparatory School, when seen last night, stated that he could not answer definitely whether the school would enter a team, but said that he favored the idea, and would take the matter under consideration with the athletic council and announce its decision at an early date. It is understood that Mr. Randolph, of Emerson Institute, is also in favor of a league for prep schools, and there is little doubt that Emerson will enter the league in the event of its organization.

Mr. Sidwell, of the Friends Select School, when broached on the subject, agreed to enter a team in the league, provided it would not interfere with the studies of the pupils, and stated that he thought the plan a good one. The Friends Select School has already started the work of making up a team, and in view of the fact that the small size precludes the possibility of its having a football eleven, all the energy of the students will be bent on the furtherance of the basketball team. The squad is at present practicing twice a week outdoors, and in a short time will start work in the gymnaslum. In addition to the regularly scheduled games in the league, should the project prove successful, the school will endeavor to arrange games with the Friends Select School, of Baltimore, Polytechnic High, of Baltimore, and some team from Central High School other than the regular quint. Following is a list of candidates who have so far reported for the team: Fay, (Capt.) Moore, Baker, Platt, Stanford, Orme, Annin, Roberts, Goldsborough, and Fille Brown.
